

UNIVERSITY LIBRARY AND LEARNING RESOURCES
CALIFORNIA STATE UNIVERSITY, LONG BEACH

Photograph: Project Emperor-1

THE FIRST EMPEROR OF CHINA

AN INTERACTIVE VIDEODISC PRESENTATION

Dr. Ching-chih Chen, Associate Dean
Graduate School of Library and Information Science
Simmons College

on

Friday, March 27, 1987

12:00 noon - 2:00 p.m.

in

Small Auditorium, University Student Union
California State University, Long Beach

Calligraphy courtesy of Professor San-pao Li
California State University, Long Beach

Equipment for program courtesy of Sony Corporation of America
Cypress, California

Program supported by Lottery Funds for Distinguished Visiting Professors, Scholars, Lecturers and Artists
California State University, Long Beach

Under the direction of Dr. Ching-chih Chen, the dynasty of China's first emperor, Qin Shi Huang Di, has been captured on videodisc. The interactive multi-media presentation, which was funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities and by Simmons College and which is officially known as "Project Emperor-I," demonstrates how harmoniously humanism and technology can be combined for unique cultural and educational experiences.

Dr. Chen's work includes more than 200,000 still and video images accompanied by music and narration. Among the many images are the three-dimensional photographs of Qin's magnificent burial tomb in Xian.

The videodisc documentary on Qin's dynasty not only can be played sequentially for a general historical study and review but also can be accessed randomly for close examination of any one of the frames. The latter is especially appealing to scholars and researchers.

The University Library and Learning Resources
California State University, Long Beach

cordially invites you to

The First Emperor of China

QIN SHI HUANG DI

221 - 206 B.C.

an interactive videodisc presentation

by

Dr. Ching-chih Chen, Professor and Associate Dean
Graduate School of Library and Information Science
Simmons College

on

Friday, March 27, 1987

12:00 noon - 2:00 p.m.

in

Small Auditorium, University Student Union
California State University, Long Beach