Dr. Chen developed these critically acclaimed interactive laserdisc programs on China's first emperor of the 3rd century B.C.E., and his times. The laserdiscs provide breathtaking variety of audio-visual material and will educate, entertain and excite anyone with an interest in China, library science, art history, architecture, archaeology, anthropology and history.

Dr. Chen is the recipient of many prestigious teaching and research awards, including the LITA/Gaylord Award (1990) for achievement in library and information technology and funding from the National Endowment for the Humanities (beginning in 1983) for the project itself.

Dr. Chen received her B.A. degree from National Taiwan University, her M.S. degree in library science from the University of Michigan, and her Ph.D. in library and information science from Case Western Reserve University.
